How's Your Liver?

Is the Oriental salutation, knowing that good health cannot exist without a healthy Liver. When the Liver is torpid the Bowels are sluggish and constipated, the food lies in the stomach undigested, poisoning the blood; frequent headache ensues; a feeling of lassitude, despondency and nervousness indicate how the whole system is deranged. Simmons Liver Regulator has been the means of restoring more people to health and happiness by giving them a healthy Liver than any agency known on earth. It acts with extraordinary power and efficacy.

NEVER BEEN DISAPPOINTED.

As a general family remedy for Dyspepsia, Torpid Liver, Constipation, etc., I hardly ever use anything else, and have never been disappointed in the effect produced; it seems to be almost a perfect cure for all diseases of the Stomach and Bowels. W. J. McELROY, Macon, Ga.

A CARD

To the Catholic People of Sonoma Town and Valley.

My Dear Friends:

Two months have elapsed since I assumed the charge of your spiritual interests. During that time I have become personally known to most of you, and I have tried to secure an accurate knowledge of the spiritual condition of yourselves and families.

I have spoken on this subject, with some freedom, in the Church, but I think it expedient to address you also through the Public Press. What one hears, is soon forgotten, what one sees makes a more lasting impression. I want you to read and to study this article carefully and conscientiously. Cut it out and keep it for leisurely perusal, or preserve the newspaper in which it is printed.

There are many questions concerning our religion that might be specifically discussed in this paper, but for the present we shall address ourselves to what seems to be our principal trouble, and the root of all our shortcomings. The principal trouble with the Catholics of Sonoma and the root of all their shortcomings is spiritual indifference.

Spiritual indifference is the daughter of spiritual ignorance. A well-instructed Catholic is rarely cold or indifferent in the practice of his religion, but a Catholic who is ignorant of his religion is, and must ever be slow, indifferent and unsteady in the practice of it.

Some of us are ashamed of our religion, the reason, or rather the unreason is, we do not know it. "Know the Truth and the Truth shall make you free." That is if we know our religion we shall see the reasonableness of it and this knowledge will make us free, bold, independent and aggressive in the practice of it.

The individuals in this congregation who are ashamed of the Faith are, by a notable coincidence, precisely those who know least about it. I can give you their names, but I cannot give you even a remote idea of the length, depth and thickness of their ignorance. It is deeper than the sea, darker than the night and thicker than a San Francisco fog.

Neither the elder nor the younger members of our congregation can shift the responsibility for this religious ignorance from their own shoulders to the shoulders of somebody else. The spiritual wants of Sonoma Catholics have been ministered to from the beginning by some of the ablest and the best priests of this Arch-Diocese. The fault lies with ourselves and from ourselves must come the remedy, if it comes at all.

What is the remedy? St Paul makes answer: "Is not Faith from hearing the Word preached?" The Word is preached now and has been continually preached for years in our church. It is our business and our responsibility to hear it and to do it. Not one of those who habitually violate the Third Commandment by staying away from Mass on Sunday can give a satisfactory reason for his misconduct. When there was only one Mass in the church every alternate Sunday that was the unfailing excuse of the Sabbath breakers for their sin of irreligion and of scandal. Now when the Holy Sacrifice is celebrated twice every Sunday, we are given all sorts of conceivable and inconceivable reasons, from the heat of the sun and the dust of the roads, to the repeal of the Silver Bill and the prospects of an European war.

The Word is also preached weekly, monthly and quarterly in Catholic newspapers and in Catholic magazines, not so formally, but perhaps quite as effectually, as in Catholic pulpits. Do you subscribe for the San Francisco "Monitor," the Boston "Pilot," the "Catholic World" or the "Catholic Review?"

We spend profitlessly, and generally with injurious consequences to ourselves, ten times the amount that would be sufficient to furnish our homes with a useful, instructive and entertaining library. For lack of such attractions in their homes our boys and young men waste energy, time and money, and lose their self respect skulking about some of the countless saloons that blotch the face and drain the heart of this rich and beautiful valley. But if some are too old to learn new lessons, we can at least give our children the benefit of our experience. Let us see that they acquire a sound and thorough knowledge of their religion. We are just now preparing some of the children for First Communion. It is a task full of responsibility for the children themselves, for you, their parents and guardians and for me, the spiritual adviser of all.

The whole future of your childrens' lives in this world and in the world to come unquestionably depends on their early religious training. The day of First Communion is for many children the day of their salvation or the day of their damnation, spiritual and temporal. Therefore I ask your assistance and your co-operation in this most important and difficult work. See that your children attend regularly the Sunday School and also the special instructions that are given every afternoon in the church. And not only do I appeal to the Catholics of this parish but I respectfully claim the sympathy and the encouragement of every thinking man, whether Protestant, Jew or Freethinker in this town and valley. For every intelligent man knows that the more religion and morality are in a man's character, the more honesty will be in his business relations and the more patriotism in the discharge of his public duties as a citizen. An intelligent and instructed Christian will cast a conscientious ballot for men and measures. He will not sell the privilege of his citizenship for the boodle of a political boss. Wherefore I say that the cause of Catholic civilization is the cause of the American Republic. The Catholic Church is now, always was and shall ever continue to be the unfailing ally of every government representing the will of the people freely and intelligently expressed. Training children to be good Catholics is educating men to be good citizens. That is a large part of my business in Sonoma.

As a representative of the Catholic Church I sympathize with every movement having for its object the advancement of the whole people regardless of creed, or class, or race. And considering what his church has done these twenty centuries for humanity, the Catholic Priest has claims on the good will, sympathy and encouragement of all his fellow citizens of every creed and of no creed, which no other individual public or private in any community can reasonably urge.

M. J. WHYTE.

Driven to the Rouge Pot.

Says a correspondent: I lost my complexion very young, grew sallow, and in order to remedy this pumpkinlike mask I took to rouging. It was a success. People began to say: "How well you look! Such a fine color." I pride myself on the fact that I have an exceedingly finished touch. I never left my mirror without giving my face the most careful scrutiny. I learned to shade off the edges until I really believe that my homemade flush was prettier than a good many going the rounds that were perfectly natural, for it never spread over my chin, nose and forehead.

One day I heard a woman lecture on the evils of painting the cheeks. I went home, threw my box of carmine in the fire and resolved that I would be natural at all hazards. In a few days I began to be greeted with commiserating glances. Friends asked if I were ill. "You look so fagged. Must be something the matter." I stood it as long as I could, when back to my rouge I went, and I shall not desert it for anything more natural unless it be to adopt beet juice, which, I hear, is not only a beautifier, but a tonic for the skin as well.

A Bridal Scrapbook.

A bridal scrapbook is novel and adds much to the merriment of the occasion. It is of course bound in white vellum, with the monogram of the bride and groom and the date in silver. There is space for the certificate made out by the officiating clergyman, which is to be signed by each and every guest. It may be placed in charge of one of the ushers and should rest on a cushion of white on a table large enough to hold a massive silver inkstand and penrack. One of the prettiest spectacular effects of the affair is the sight of the bride signing her new name for the first time.

The book also contains spaces for the photographs of the entire bridal party as well as for bits of the gowns worn. Just before the departure of the happy couple a maid might carry around a silver bowl full of rice, so that each guest may shower the departing bride with the emblem of prosperity. The last detail, although its preparation may antedate others, is the writing of the marriage notice for the press.—New York Commercial Advertiser.

Decorated Prayer Books.

Prayer books are a fad this season, especially those for youthful brides. A beautiful volume containing four original sonnets done in antique silver lettering upon rough edged parchment has a center piece upon the outside of old Flemish lace, bordered with small imitation pearls. Orange buds and leaves are embroidered in groups on both sides of the white satin cover and silver filigree protectors lap over the corners. The richest covers for brides prayer books, which contain only the marriage service, are of moire or silk, suede kid, or of white satin, moire or silk corduroy. The last named material admits of but little embroidery, and this appears at the corners, the bride's initials in silver taking the center of the cover in front. The reverse has the date of the marriage also in silver lettering. Four inches of white satin or moire ribbon borders of ecclesiastical color, in silver thread and ecclesiastical silk are used.—Boston Courier.

FOR LITTLE FOLKS.

The Water Trick.

The trick I will explain calls for two glasses, one of which must have water in it. Put the one containing the water at your left hand and cover it with a piece of cardboard. Beside it, at your right hand, is an empty glass just like the first one in shape and size. You now invite some person on your side of the table to make the water glass appear on the right and the empty one on the left without touching or moving either glass or allowing any one else to do so. After they have given up this problem you hold your hands near the glasses to show that the water is on the left, and by simply passing around the table and facing the glasses from that side you have the water on your right. This is simple and easy, but it will cause a laugh. Big bets have been won and lost on more trivial tricks than this little one.

Princess and Little Boy.

A fellow guest at the Savoy with the Princess Eulalie tells of the satisfactory achievement of the full measure of one small boy's ambition. The little fellow greatly admired the Spanish woman, but always at a distance until one day he took his place at the end of the corridor leading from her rooms with the avowed intention of at least waving his hands as she passed. When his patience was finally rewarded by her approach, the child's speaking face at once arrested the infanta's attention.

Stopping, she said, reaching out to her delighted admirer: "What a dear little boy! I must have a kiss!" and she got it at once, with a hug thrown in, an enthusiasm which so pleased the royal woman that she asked the name and residence of the young hero. Finding he was living in the hotel, at her next leisure she sent an invitation to his parents to come with him to her apartments, where they were received with great cordiality and the small boy petted by the child loving princess to his heart's content.—New York Times.

In the Dollroom.

I'm going out a little while,
And you must promise, Dolly,
To sit as quiet as a mouse,
And not go romping o'er the house
With pussy cat and Polly.

For pussy's claws are very sharp,
And they are sure to scratch you,
Or if you get in Polly's reach
She'll give an awful, awful screech,
And with her beak she'll catch you.

And don't go mussing up your things
Or get your dress in creases;
Don't put your hands up to your hat;
Your bangs are loose—remember that—
And they may come to pieces.

Don't pull the buttons off your shoes
Or laugh when Polly chatters;
You mustn't mind her talk a bit,
But only shut your eyes and sit
And think of other matters.

And promise, Dolly, not to pout,
It makes you look so simple,
For every time you frown, you know,
It makes the horrid wrinkles grow
And spoils your pretty dimple.

You'd better go to sleep, for then
I'll have no cause to scold you.
By by, my dear—now try and see
How good you really can be—
Remember what I told you.

—C. M. Snyder.

Rather Sour For a Little Girl.

Midget was such a very busy little person that she could never see anything lying on the table in her reach without handling and sometimes tasting it. One day her mother had left an open package of lump alum on the table, and no sooner did she turn her back when Midget put a large lump in her mouth. When her mother turned around, the little girl said, with a very wry face, "That is awful sour ice, mamma."—Youth's Companion.

The Real True Way to Catch Bullfrogs.

When we were at Chattanooga, we learned how to catch bullfrogs where they inhabit ponds. Just take a light and wade in around the edge after dark, and they will sit on the edge and look at the light until some one on the bank can catch them. Mr. Saunders, near Ringgold, was the man to try it, and he caught 36 the first night.—Walker County (Ga.) Messenger.

A Babe In the Woods.

A little daughter of blacksmith Grossenbacher, who lives on North Fourth street, Plattsmouth, Neb., strayed away from its home during the recent storm. The neighbors turned out, and for several hours were engaged in a fruitless search for the missing girl. Officers Fitzpatrick and Black didn't give up as easily as the others, and finally succeeded in finding the little one asleep under some brush in a thickly wooded ravine, less than two blocks from the home. This was after midnight, and the child was soaked from head to foot with the rain. The strange part of the proceedings was that the parents gave up the search and retired for the night long before the officers found the child.

Stewart, and for taxes assessed between 1862 and 1868, and that said judgments stand unsatisfied on the records and make a cloud upon the title to certain lands, be it resolved that the District Attorney of Sonoma county, State of California, is hereby directed to enter satisfaction of said judgment."

The sum of $53 45 was ordered transferred from the Penn's Grove road fund to the Petaluma road fund, to be used in the repairs to the Rainsville bridge.

America's Great Danger

AN ENGLISH COMMENTARY.

Said an eminent English scientist recently: "The danger that confronts the great American people to-day is not the possible adoption of a wrong financial policy for the nation, or the spread of socialism, or the increase of corruption among public men. All these are bad enough, to be sure, but they are as nothing compared to the terrible national disease—I had almost said national crime—of overwork. The mad rush for wealth is set at a killing pace, and thousands fall by the way every year.

You are likely to be one of the victims!

How do we know? Because it is the exception to find a man or woman of adult age in perfect health. Nervous Disorders are spreading with fearful rapidity. Among the symptoms, are—Backache, Biliousness, Cold Hands and Feet, Dizziness, Hot Flashes, Fluttering Sensation, Fainting, Headache, Hysteria, Irritability of the Heart, Melancholy, Failing Memory, Palpitation, Rheumatism, Short Breath, Sleeplessness, Nervous Dyspepsia, Sexual Debility, Fits, etc.

REV. C. A. CARROLL, pastor First Baptist Church, Yellow Springs, O., writes as follows: "I have used Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine for the past six months. I find it acts like a charm on the whole nervous system. I have not found its equal in giving immediate relief. Dr. Miles' Little Nerve and Liver Pills only need a trial and they will recommend themselves to be the best pills in the market."

"For five years I have suffered from Nervous Prostration, I was unable to work or sleep. The first dose of Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine gave me relief, and one thousand dollars would not cover the good it has done me."—JOHN MINCHER, Youngstown, Ohio.

Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine is unequalled in CURING Nervous Diseases. It contains no opiates or dangerous drugs. Sold on a positive guarantee by all druggists, or Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind.

The alarm of fire, which roused the people of Sonoma at 6:30 last Saturday morning, was for a chimney blaze in the residence of Henry Weyl on Spain street. The firemen were promptly on the ground with their apparatus, but their services were not needed, as the flames were speedily extinguished by members of Mr. Weyl's family.

Wm. McElroy, the enterprising owner of the property occupied by G. H. Hotz and C. W. Engelbert, having a frontage of sixty feet on Napa street, has contracted with G. This work is being done by Mr. De Bernardi for $20 less than is charged by San Francisco contractors for similar work.

A sister of Mrs. Helberg of Shellville, while attempting to get into a go-cart in this place, last Wednesday, was thrown to the ground by the horse suddenly starting up. She held bravely to the reins, and after being dragged about twenty feet Jo Ryan grabbed the animal by the bits and brought him to a standstill. The young lady escaped with a few minor bruises.

Dull times are the very best of times for stirring and live business men to push for trade and advertise liberally in good newspapers. These are the times, above all others, when the newspaper reader has an eye to economy, and can scan every part of his or her paper without interruption and see who offers the best inducement to purchasers. Real business men, who are in the habit of advertising, make a big mistake when they withdraw their ads from the papers in dull times, for these are the very ones in which they should spread themselves in that way more than ever.—Ureka Union.

Carl Foerstler, formerly engaged in the wine-cellars of Dresel & Co. of this place as a wine maker, distiller and cooper, has established a fine cooperage business in Santa Rosathe past two years, under the firm name of Foerstler & Legh. At the present time he is filling contracts for wine casks, puncheons, etc., aggregating nearly $20,000. He is now engaged in turning out five 25,000 gallon wine tanks and is also manufacturing all the cooperage for the Healdsburg Must Condensing Company. Five carloads of white oak to be made up into puncheons were received by Messrs. Foerstler & Legh last week. The many friends of Mr. Foerstler in Sonoma Valley will be pleased to learn of his success in business since leaving Sonoma two years ago.

AGUA CALIENTE POSTOFFICE SQUABBLE.

Cady and Morris on Top—Post-Master John Austin Down and in Jail.

The squabble between M. K. Cady and J. B. Morris on the one side, and Postmaster John Austin on the other, wherein the two former have been endeavoring the past few months to wrest the Post-office from John Austin's store at Agua Caliente and have it removed to Cady's boarding house, with Cady as Postmaster, culminated in the arrest of Austin last Monday evening.

He was taken in custody by Deputy United States Marshal Munckton, on complaint of Messrs. Cady and Morris, charged with opening letters addressed to the two latter. Austin was taken to San Francisco and thrown into Jail, where he now languishes.

The offense with which he is charged is a very serious one and if Cady and Morris do not succeed in sending him to San Quentin it will be no fault of theirs. The warfare existing between Austin and Cady and Morris has been a most bitter one for some time past. A few months ago they were good enough friends, but one Sunday Austin and Morris became involved in a difficulty which ended in a slogging match. Both were arrested and found guilty of battery and fined $25 each. Cady sided with Morris in this trouble and as a result he and Austin became bitter enemies, since which time a triangular Kilkenny cat contest has been waged between the parties.

Austin with his wife and two or three children located in Agua Caliente last November. He bought the house, lot and merchandise store belonging to Mrs. C. F. Badger, paying cash for his purchase. At the time he took possession Mrs. Badger was Postmaster of the hamlet, and when she resigned, previous to leaving for the East, Austin made application for the position and was appointed in her stead.

Shortly after taking possession Austin started a bar in the rear of his store, and he claims that by doing so he incurred the displeasure of Cady, who also runs a bar in connection with his boarding house.

In regard to Morris, who is the Mail Messenger of the burg, whose duty it is to carry the mail bag to and fro from the railway station and Postoffice, Austin asserts that his enmity dates back to the time when he informed the Postal authorities at Washington that Morris' children, aged eight and ten years, were carrying the mail in violation of the law. However that may be, great efforts have been made by both Cady and Morris to oust the obnoxious Postmaster from his position and have the former appointed in his stead.

The offense charged against Austin is a most grave one, and if he is guilty the full penalty of the law should be meted out to him, for the man that would willfully open the letters of another is about the meanest wretch on earth.

In justice to the accused and his innocent wife and babies, however, we will state that he claims a job has been put up on him by Morris and Cady, and as proof of his assertion of innocence he points to the fact that they are his deadly enemies and are trying to get the Postoffice away from him.

Midnight Burglars.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Brown, the former owners of Pioneer Grove, had quite an exciting encounter with midnight burglars a few nights ago at their residence on Octavia street, San Francisco. It seems that Mr. Brown and his wife had retired at 10 o'clock, and about an hour later were awakened by a noise in the room adjoining their sleeping apartment. Brown ran to the door connecting the rooms and tried to open it, but strong hands held the knob on the other side. It gave way suddenly and he fell into the front room in time to see two young men rush to the window. It was apparently too far above the ground for a leap and they turned back, and one of them who wore a cutaway suit of brown cloth struck Mr. Brown a blow on the right arm with a slungshot. They then passed into the hallway and ran down stairs, making their escape through a window in the kitchen.

A September Storm.

The storm which had been brewing in this vicinity for three or four days broke forth with great fury last Wednesday morning. At times the downpour was simply tremedous. Thunder and lightning accompanied the rain which lasted throughout the day. Much damage was done to dried fruit in the orchards and also to hay in the fields. At the present time there is no indication of a clear up. Should the present weather continue much longer the grape crop may be a total failure in this valley.

REMINGTON.

Glen Ellen, Sept. 7th, 1893.

City Trustees.

The Board of City Trustees held their regular monthly meeting last Wednesday evening. The following members were present: Trustees Litzius, Schocken, Trudgen and Seipp. In the absence of President Weyl, Trustee Trudgen was called to the chair.

After the reading of the minutes of the previous meeting by Clerk Breitenbach, which were approved, the usual monthly bills were passed upon and allowed.

Trustee Seipp reported that he had examined the nuisance alleged to exist in the western part of town and found only clear water running in the small ditch, which had recently been dug on the premises of Chas. McHarvey.

On motion the report was accepted and the special committee discharged.

Upon motion of Trustee Litzius thirty dollars were appropriated to renew the planking of two small bridges on First-street West; also, that a lot of old planks be sold for $1.00.

Clerk Breitenbach informed the Trustees that the terms of the City Recorder and Sexton for Mountain Cemetery had expired and that a vacancy existed in both offices. It was thereupon moved by Trustee Seipp that J. M Cheney be appointed City Recorder, to succeed himself and the motion was unanimously carried.

The appointment of Sexton was laid over for another month.

On motion of Trustee Schocken it was moved and carried that Geo. Spanning be appointed to take care of the fire apparatus for one year.

The following bills were allowed and ordered paid:

Wm. Linehan, sprinkling	$10.00
R. A. Poppe, services	2.50
G. W. Sparks, salary	15.00
George Small, labor	2.00
L. H. Green, lumber	85.42
J. M. Cheney, hauling	1.50
P. Baccala, labor	38.00
H. H. Granice, printing	7.50
W. Wilson, refunding poll tax	2.00
C. Haydermann, same	2.00
Total	$165.92

The Board then adjourned until September 11th at 8 o'clock for the purpose of making the tax levy for the year 1893.

Cash Paid for Labor.

Hunt Bros. advertise for 100 additional girls and women to work in their cannery. The wages run from $1 to $2.50 per day, according to the speed of the workman. They have engaged the fruit and must take care of it. If help cannot be secured here they will have to send to San Francisco and empoly Chinamen. But there are plenty of people in and about Santa Rosa who need this employment. They should do this work and keep the money at home. The Hunt Bros. inform us that they have made arrangements to pay off every Tuesday. While women and girls are desired, the work being light and better suited to them, the Hunt Bros. do not decline to employ men. They offer steady work for two weeks or more and the money should be earned by people living in this city and county.—Santa Rosa Republican.

The Professor commenced by phrenologically reading the heads of nearly all present. He was a stranger to nearly all, but he read their heads so correctly as to startle some and bring shouts of laughter to the company. After performing several mysterious tricks with cards the Professor put little rolls of burning cotton into his mouth and then pulled out yards and yards of colored ribbons. He performed several other tricks to the mystification of all present. His songs to his own accompaniment on the banjo and guitar were worth hearing and called for repeated encores. A repast was served at twelve o'clock, after which dancing was indulged in for a short time. The party then dispersed well pleased with the way in which they had been entertained.

THE WISE OUTING WOMAN.

What She Puts In Her Trunk Now That It Is Time to Pack It.

What a blessing those women are who go about "picking up the dropped stitches in life," who remember what others forget and who know just what to do and how to it in every emergency!

By a special dispensation of providence there is one such in every community, and, better yet, at every summer hotel and boarding house throughout the length and breadth of the land. The Humane society, individually and collectively, know her and her services, but they award her no medal, though she is a life saver and benefactor to countless thousands. In addition to the actual service rendered she teaches many a lesson to the inexperienced, who pass it on until some things become the heritage of the race.

She may be a lonely maid whose chief possession is good health, which she guards by means of preventives and simple remedies. For instance, she has a hot water bag, which she uses as a "warming pan" for damp sheets on cold nights by the sea. She carries a spirit lamp, which she lends more often than she uses; mustard leaves, which she invariably gives away; brandy, which some stranger always finds handy; nails and hammer, which she will use for the benefit of the hookless. She has novels that suit all tastes, perfect crochet needles, odds and ends of canvas with which she shows the latest patterns to those interested.

Or she may be the mother of some sturdy boys and girls who are provided with old jackets and stout boots, and therefore do not worry her life out by slipping out in a pelting storm to see whether the old hen has laid an egg in the haymow or the sea has washed up another treasure.

She has arnica for sprained ankles and essence of ginger for "such a pain." If she does not own one of the neat little medicine cases such as are everywhere displayed this year and which fill a long felt want, her bottles, including some special prescription that she has found never failing, are packed in old muslin and linen, valuable on their own account for the probable cut fingers and sore toes. These bottles are put into a tin box or old basket and wedged so tightly that scatter brained Tom carried them all the way with "never a spill."

She has pieces of cloth like all the frocks and all the trousers, a bag of buttons, shoelaces galore, pins and hairpins and good black darning wool, which experience has taught her can never be found anywhere except "just around the corner" from her own house.

And with these things and a supply of underwear which nearly bursts the corners of the shabby old trunk that so many eyed suspiciously when it was first deposited on the piazza she found room for some cards for solitaire, a box of dominos and a game of backgammon or halma for the older children. The "middling sized" youngsters are provided with a slate and pencils, which latter she deals out "judgmatically," one at a time. For the 5-year-old she carried a box of beads, while the baby crowed with delight to see his dear dog with the chewed ear leap into his arms when the trunk was unpacked.

Books she had none till the little 10-year-old invalid pleaded for her fairy tales and the bedtime "Uncle Remus." The mother has no time to read novels, and her fancy work, she declares, consists entirely of the darning stitch.

This woman, be she maid or matron, is a benediction to the forlorn misanthropes who bewail a day's imprisonment in hotel parlors, reiterating in dull monotones that they "never dreamed of such weather."

She can talk servants or science, pastry or politics, and, best of all, is a good listener. She soon becomes an authority, and when she waves farewell to those on the hotel piazza there is but one comment. "She was a nice woman."

Why? Because she knew what to put into a trunk.

It is a lesson worth acquiring.—New York Times.

The Rise of the Veil.

Until about three years ago it was quite optional with a woman whether she wore a veil or not. Since that time it has become, in the cities at least, almost obligatory. One girl, who never, as she expressed it, "could bear the feeling of any covering to her face," chanced to come into town from a somewhat protracted country stay. This is her story of her experience:

"I had not been in a car long before I had an odd sensation as though I were without my hat or as though I had no gloves on. I can't quite describe it, but I felt bold and conspicuous. Finally I saw what it was. Every other woman's face was covered with a veil. I had never worn one, and I had never had that feeling before. But I alighted at the first available shop and bought what I now regarded as a requisite. I told a friend of my distressed situation, and she said she understood it precisely. The same thing had happened to her when she first came back from her country place in the fall. She, too, was obliged to sink old prejudices and purchase a veil forthwith."—Philadelphia Press.

Red Raspberry Punch.

A brew of punch that will satisfy the eye and gratify the taste of the most exacting is made by adding a little maraschino and red carmoon to an ice of red raspberries. Mash one quart of the berries and mix with them a cupful of sugar and the juice of one lemon. In half an hour put through a fine sieve, add a pint of water and a fourth of a cupful of each liquor. Freeze and serve in small glasses.—Exchange.

In the Geography Class.

There was company in the schoolroom that morning when the beginning class in geography was called. To the question, "What is a cape?" every hand went up. "Nannie may tell," said the teacher. "A cape is a point of land objecting to the water."—Exchange.

A Honeymoon Incident.

A well known local carpenter tells a story that is intended as a good joke on his wife. When they were married, they rented apartments in a block, the rear of which overlooked one of the rivers, and among the wife's earliest culinary efforts was a batch of bread. The young husband sampled his wife's contribution to the world's stock of the "staff of life," and arising from the table playfully remarked:

"My dear, cast your bread upon the waters."

The wife took offense at the injunction, and as her husband left the house she flung the remaining loaf out of the window into the river. It struck a passing boat, crashing through the bottom and sinking in the water's murky depths. The next she knew the boatman, dripping wet, made a tour of the block, bent on discovering who dumped the hod of brick into his craft.—Binghamton Leader.

A Writer of Stories.

Just a few years ago a sharp nosed, bright eyed young man used to haunt the secondhand book stores of this city. He would buy and eagerly devour all the cheap novels, blood and thunder stories, etc., exposed for sale. One day he astonished an old bookseller whom he found reading an interesting story by informing him that he was the author of it. One day he disappeared, and later it was reported that he was writing for the weekly story papers in New York city.

The other day came the news that he was at the head of a novel publishing company and wrote about 100 continued stories himself yearly for his weekly story papers and library publications. He is said to have an income of about $12,000 a year. He has concealed his right name, it is declared, and writes under any number of noms de plume.—Cincinnati Times-Star.

One Thing Bishop Brooks Did.

On one occasion Bishop Brooks received a letter from a man in New York saying, "Will you please send me a list of all the publications in your diocese? On receiving it the bishop did not even smile at the absurdity of the request or seemed annoyed that a man should trouble him upon such a simple matter. He accepted it as something to fulfill.

"Do you think you can find what this man wants?" said he to his secretary.

"I guess so," came the reply, and the secretary, who knew the noble hearted bishop so well, spent half the night completing the task.—Boston Globe.

Mamma Caught Napping.

"Am I thin or fat, mamma?"

She had already been asked too many questions, but her mother answered her once more.

"Why, dear," she said, "you are not very fat, but you are fat enough for a little girl who is growing."

This reply was certainly diplomatic, but it did not apparently satisfy the child, for a few seconds later she came out with this terrible poser:

"Say, mamma, are there any little girls who are not growing?"—Boston Herald.

Kleptomania, which is so often used nowadays as a cloak for respectable stealing, is a form of monomania. Dr. Pritchard mentions a typical case of a madman who would never eat his food unless he had previously stolen it.

The total annual loss from insects in the United States is estimated by the best entomological authorities at about $380,000,000.

"August Flower"

For two years I suffered terribly with stomach trouble, and was for all that time under treatment by a physician. He finally, after trying everything, said stomach was about worn out, and that I would have to cease eating solid food for a time at least. I was so weak that I could not work. Finally on the recommendation of a friend who had used your preparations with beneficial results, I procured a bottle of August Flower, and commenced using it. It seemed to do me good at once. I gained in strength and flesh rapidly; my appetite became good, and I suffered no bad effects from what I ate. I feel now like a new man, and consider that August Flower has entirely cured me of Dyspepsia in its worst form. JAMES E. DEDERICK, Saugerties, New York.

A worn-out Stomach.

W. B. Utsey, St. George's, S. C., writes: I have used your August Flower for Dyspepsia and find it an excellent remedy.

Premature loss means impotency in the first stage. It is a symptom of seminal weakness and barrenness. It can be stopped in 20 days by the use of Hudyan.
The new discovery was made by the Specialists of the old famous Hudson Medical Institute. It is the strongest vitalizer made. It is very powerful, but harmless. Sold for $1.00 a package or 6 packages for $5.00 (plain sealed boxes). Write a guarantee given for a cure. If you buy six boxes and are not entirely cured, six more will be sent to you free of all charges. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address

My wife was troubled with nervousness about one year before she took Pastor Koenig's Nerve Tonic, and at that time had very severe attacks of spasm, convulsion, and pains in different parts of the body; when in this state her lower jaws would act violently and set sometimes, bite her tongue, breathe heavily, then short, then seemed to stop entirely, get a wild look in her eyes and rolling around, then stop sometimes; it would take two men to hold her in bed otherwise her body would cramp and be so for two hours. She took but two bottles of the Nerve Tonic, which cured her entirely of all these torments, which myself and wife gladly testify it truly had the desired effect. D. S. M'GILLIS.

Mrs. Ester Devilbiss, 354 S. Tenth street, San Jose, Cal., writes, October 1893: Pastor Koenig's Nerve Tonic has indeed done wonders in my part of the country. There has been bought in my neighborhood over $50 worth.

KENDALL'S SPAVIN CURE.
STOCKTON, CAL., Dec. 19th, '92.
DR. B. J. KENDALL CO.
Gentlemen:—Having read one of your Treatise on the Horse and seeing the Spavin Cure advertised, I thought I would try it. I had one horse with a prominent Spavin of 12 months standing. I removed it with ½ bottle. I tied upone fore foot on same side the spavin was and compelling the horse to rest on lame leg while I took a surcingle and drew it across the hock or spavin until the hock or spavin got very warm with the friction, then putting on Spavin Cure. I had a mare that had a running from her nose for 12 or 14 months. I rubbed the Spavin Cure from her eyes down to nostrils, then from back of jaw bone down under the throat for a week. I have not seen any discharge for two months.
Yours truly, HUGH McDADE.
